*Grace Notes
January 18, 2015*

Dear Mary Taylor Memorial Church community,

Shane Claiborne (born July 11, 1975) is founder of The Simple Way in Philadelphia, in part to help it live up to its moniker as the “City of Brotherly Love.” He once was arrested for violating a law making it a crime to sleep on the sidewalk. At the trial the judge remembered Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. and remarked: “What is in question is not whether these folks broke the law...but the constitutionality of these laws.”

When the prosecuting attorney argued that the constitutionality of the law is not before this court, the judge retorted: “The constitutionality of the law is before every court. If it weren’t for people who broke unjust law, we wouldn’t have the freedoms we do. That’s the story of this country from the Boston Tea Party to the Civil Rights movement. These people aren’t criminals; they are freedom fighters. And I find them all not guilty, on every charge.”

When standing for equality for all people, as we say in our church mission statement, those who imagine alternatives to oppression, injustice and war have been called crazy, or worse. At our core as Christians is not whether or not we, or the country, have “made progress.” At our core is whether we are working to fulfill Christ’s prayer, “Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done, on earth as it is in heaven.”

In Christ,

Pastor Brian
